Subject: Governor Hocu Pulls Single Family Housing proposal from Budget

Friends –

I am advised that Newsday is reporting tonight that Governor Hocu is “pulling her budget proposal to require local governments to accept an expansion of apartments and backyard cottages in single-family neighborhoods...”

This occurred as a result of the extraordinary opposition expressed by local municipal leaders, including us, as well as residents across the state.

While this is a positive development, it results from an unpopular decision in an election year and vigilance is in order. More to come.

Ken
